Ordered in divine sciences and religious sciences. Early life Dr. Joseph Murphy was born in Ballydehob, County Cork, Ireland, son of a principal of a private school for boys and grew a Roman Catholic. He joined the Jesuits. Murphy enrolled at the National School, was encouraged to study for the priesthood and was accepted as a Jesuit seminarian. However, when he arrived at the end of adolescence, he began to question the Catholic orthodoxy of the Jesuits, and he retired from the seminar. The aim of him was to explore new ideas and acquire new experiences € À] a goal that he could not pursue in Ireland dominated by Catholics € À]ha left the family to go to America. At Ventá € "™ years, before being ordained a priest, a healing prayer experience led him to leave the Jesuits and emigrate to the United States in 1922; He traveled as a Steering Passenger on board the RMS Cedric, sailing from Liverpool, England, to the port of New York; On the passenger manifesto of the ship, the profession of him was indicated as a chemist, the British. Term of pharmacist. He became a professional pharmacist in New York City (having a degree in chemistry at that time). Here he frequented the Church of Christ Healer (part of the Church of Divine Science), where Emmet Fox had become Minister in 1931. [1] Career Murphy traveled to India and passed a lot of time with Indian sages, learning the unduly philosophy. He later he formed a new church in America with Indu ideologies. At the age of years he moved to Los Angeles, where he met Ernest Holmes, founder of religious sciences, and in 1946 he was ordered by Holmes in Religious Sciences, then he taught Rochester, New York, and after the Institute of Religious Sciences of Los Angeles. A meeting with the President of the Divine Science Association, Erwin Gregg, led him to be reordered to Divine Science, and became Minister of Los Angeles Divine Science Church in 1949, which made one of the greatest congregations of the new thought of the country. When the United States entered the Second World War, Murphy enlisted in the army and was assigned to work as a pharmacist in the medical unit of the 88th Infantry Division. At that moment, he renewed his interest in religion and began to read for a long time on various spiritual beliefs. After the leave from the army, he chose not to resume his career in the pharmacy. He traveled a lot, attending courses in different universities both in the United States and abroad. A person who had a particularly strong influence on Murphy was Thomas Troward, a judge, philosopher, doctor and professor. He became the mentor of Murphy. From him not only he learned philosophy, theology and law, reads, It was also introduced to mysticism and in particular, the massonic order. He became an active member of this order, and over the years he got up in the Masonic ranks at the 32nd degree in the Scottish rite. Murphy chose to become a minister and to bring his vast knowledge to the public. Because his concept of Christianity was not traditional and ran against many Christian confessions, he founded him in Los Angeles. He attracted a small number of congngants, but he didn't take much for his message of optimism and hope rather than the sermons à sin-and-damnation of many ministers to attract many men and women in him church of him. Murphy was a New Thought movement supporter. This movement was developed at the end of the XIX and at the beginning of the 20th century by many philosophers and profound thinkers who have studied this phenomenon and preached, written, and practiced a new way of looking at life and getting desires. Murphy wrote more than 30 books. The most famous work of him, The Power of Your Subconscious Mind, which was published for the first time in 1963, became an immediate bestseller. It has become a bestseller and has sold millions of copies around the world. Personal life and death in the 1950s, Murphy married, achieved a doctorate in psychology at the University of Southern California and began to write. After the first wife he died in 1976, he replied to a colleague Minister of Divine Science which was the secondary of him's secretary of him. He moved his ministry to Laguna Hills, California, where he died in 1981. his wife, Dr. Jean Murphy, continued in this ministry for a few years later.
